Good Opportunity For Taxpayers' Assn.

Time Approaching For Choosing Town Officials

Some few months ago there was organized in town what was called "The Taxpayers' Association." For a few weeks the new organization was fairly active and it looked as though it was going to be quite a live one, working in the interests of matters pertaining to the welfare of the town. Of late, however, little has been heard of it, and people are beginning to wonder if rigor mortis has already set in.

The reason the Review draws attention to this just now is that the time is soon coming when it was expected that organization would be able to render valuable service to the town in obtaining the annual difficulty of getting candidates in the field to run for Mayor, Councillors and school trustees. For a number of years past the lack of interest shown by taxpayers in this matter has been nothing short of pathetic. On most occasions only two or three taxpayers would be on hand to nominate candidates and vacancies have been filled only at the last minute and then only after scouring all over town to induce some one to accept. This is bad. It is a sure sign of decadence in town and community interest and should not be allowed to continue unless we have made up our minds to call in the undertaker to complete the job.

This year there will be four councillors who have filled out their terms, and two and possibly three on the school board. Whether or not the retiring members of both boards will stand again is requested, and whether or not the taxpayers want them to run again, is something that should be found out in plenty of time to prevent non-inaction day going by default as it once did, or just drifting along the line of least resistance. It is just as important that taxpayers exercise their franchise on nomination day as on election day.

The Taxpayers' Association started out under most promising circumstances with a good list of apparently active members. Then will have an opportunity in the next few weeks of rendering a service to the town, which for several years past has been sadly lacking.

Xmas Entertainment At Harvest Vale

Splendid Program Given By School Pupils

A very successful Xmas Tree Entertainment was held at Harvest Vale school on Friday evening last. Mr. Buchholz of Redcliff acted as chairman and the children taking part in the program acquitted themselves very creditably indeed. Great credit is due to the teacher Miss Buchholz for the splendid program rendered. After the entertainment the evening was spent in dancing.

King George Exchanges Greetings With Empire

Many in Town Here Greeting Over Radio

Quite a number in town got up early Sunday morning to hear the Empire wide Christmas greetings which came over the radio. The King's message was particularly clear and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard it.

Speaking from Sandringham House the King said:

"Through one of the marvels of modern science, I am enabled this Christmas Day to speak to all my people throughout the empire." His Majesty said.

"I take it as a good omen that wireless should have reached its present perfection at a time when the Empire is linked in closest union, for it offers us immense possibilities to make that union closer still."

"It may be that our future will lay upon us more than one stern test. Our past will have taught us how to meet it unshaken."

"For the present the work to which we are all equally bound is to arrive at reasoned tranquility within our borders to regain prosperity without self-seeking and to carry with us those whom the burden of the past years has disheartened."

"My life has been to accept. This is best. It is a sure sign of decadence in town and community interest and should not be allowed to continue unless we have made up our minds to call in the undertaker to complete the job."

"I speak now from my home and from my heart to you all; to men and women so cut off by time, by desert and by sea, that only voices out of the air can reach them."

"To those cut off from fuller life by blindness, sickness or infirmity, and those celebrating this day with their children, or grandchildren, to each and all I wish a happy Christmas. God Bless You!"

Have Christmas Tree At Gordon Memorial

Splendid Program Put on By The Sunday School

Gordon Memorial school room was filled to capacity on Monday night, the occasion being the annual Christmas Tree entertainment for the Church School. A varied and lengthy program of recitations, songs, exercises and plays was given. Three or four of the numbers were of a very high order and particular mention may be made of the play put on by the senior C. G. I. T. girls, led by Mrs. White. The title of the play was, "Minnie Lights The Candle," and was ably directed by Mrs. Shumlin, Jr. Towards the end of the program a radiogram announced the approach of Santa Claus, burst into the room, shaking hands all around and distributed good things to all the scholars.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The teachers and officers wish to express thanks to all those who donated cash or goods to the Xmas tree.

A New Year's Message

Written for the Review by Mrs. H. Erskine Davis

1933! Old Father Time moves on the even tenor of his ways. Cries and depressions, art all the same to him. This tends to make the road of life a monotonous routine. So it is. So it is well to take note of the milestones by the way. Conspicuous among these is New Year's Day. The first day of 1933 falls on Sunday, the first day of the week. This makes it a little more prominent and significant. The thought of a New Year's day reminds us of the new year's eye back over the old year just closing, and recall its uncertainty, its hardships, its disappointments, and yet with its blessings, material and spiritual, that have kept us in health and strength of body and mind and spirit.

The thought of a New Year, also quickens us to look onward and upward. It gives us the opportunity of making a new start, of taking fresh courage. God makes all things new. We are the Recreator as well as the Creator. Every morning, every new born babe, every fresh movement in history is proof of this. What new inspiration may come into our lives, if we can realize a closer relationship, a more intimate fellowship with Him, and follow His guidance throughout the New Year.

A whist drive and dance will be held in the I. O. O. F. hall on Friday evening of this week under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion. Good prizes for cards and the best of music will be provided.

Midnight Frolics Attract Large Crowd

The Two Dance Halls in Town Were Used

Starting a few minutes after midnight last Sunday there were two midnight frolics. One was held in the Cliff Hall by the Bruce orchestra from Medicine Hat and the other by the entertainment committee of the local I. O. O. F. lodge. Cliff hall was packed for the occasion, a large percentage of those present coming from Medicine Hat. Although the attendance at I. O. O. F. hall was not so large both crowds had a thoroughly enjoyable early Christmas morning frolic.

The Review is informed that it is the intention of the Bruce orchestra to hold periodical dances in Cliff Hall during the winter.

BEATTY MEETS SCOUTS

Honesty, courage and modesty are the cardinal virtues that make for success and they should be the ideal of every Canadian boy, said E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in addressing the Montreal District Scout Council at their headquarters in that city recently. Mr. Beatty was speaking in his capacity as president of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scout Association and had been presented with a copy of the new Scout song book, "Songs for Canadian Boys." The appeal of this book is to all classes of boys and girls, to adults and to the Scouts themselves. It is a book that would adorn the shelves of any library. Some of the finest poems in the language are included, making the book an anthology in itself. The songs include those common to the Empire, those of Canada, Wales, the United States, France, Canada, France, sea songs, sea choruses, and miscellaneous songs. The French-Canadian song group have scholarly English translations by J. Murray Gibson. It is a book that would adorn the shelves of any library. Mr. Beatty made a complete inspection of the Scouts' Montreal premises and visited the interest in the boy shop where hundreds of old and damaged toys were being put into shape and repaired for distribution among the poor and destitute children at Christmas. Photo-graphed him among the boys at work in the shop.

Town Council Met Wednesday Evening

Unemployment Chairman Will Be Here Soon

Owing to the holiday season council met in regular session last Wednesday evening instead of Monday.

The secretary reported that some response had been received from he letters urging delinquents who are renting town houses to pay up back rent. Instructions were given to notify those who had not made an effort to reduce their indebtedness, to vacate the premises some settlement is made, at once.

A letter was read from the school board asking for the usual grant to pay salaries and debentures now due. The request was granted on motion of council.

A letter was read from Mr. McKenney, chairman of the Unemployment Board in reply to request for information regarding work for single unemployed.

The letter stated that, Mr. McKenney would be in Redcliff shortly to investigate the situation. On motion of councillors Shaw and Harrave the secretary was instructed to have notice put in the Review regarding single unemployed work in camps.

Mrs. I. Trembath left on Monday last for Rossland, B. C., where she will visit her parents for a few weeks.

The Review has been handed the following apy from: "The officials of the Redcliff skating rink would like to know just what the people of the town would like. They complained about poor ice and lights last winter. This year we have both these in good condition and all no patrons. What's the matter now?"

Mrs. I. Trembath left on Monday last for Rossland, B. C., where she will visit her parents for a few weeks.

English Heirlooms

Royal Commission On Historical Monuments Busy Taking Inventory

If there are any who imagine that the auction rooms have made a clearance of the historic treasures of England they may reassess themselves. Prodigious as the sales have been in recent years, they have but "scratched the surface" of the United Kingdom's savings from the centuries. Ample evidence of this is furnished in the inventory, so far as it has proceeded, of the royal commission on historical monuments. Appointed by King Edward 24 years ago the commission has to date made a survey only of London and of five counties. The war and the lean times following are in part responsible for the seeming slowness of progress, but even more so has been the laborious care taken by the commission in every detail of its work.

Roman camps, earthworks, churches and castles, cottages and manor houses, monasteries and market halls—nothing small or great in building or furnishings which was in existence before the year 1714 has escaped minute inspection. Charged to register "those places which seem most worthy of preservation," the commissioners of Edward VII. and George V. in thoroughgoing survey put to the blush the commissioners of Henry VIII. who made a more sinister visitation of England's abbey and monasteries.

Fifteen substantial volumes in quarto record the results achieved so far. Even the smallest of the hundreds of photographs is a work of art. How stupendous was the amount of material which awaited examination may be gathered from the fact that it was necessary to devote an entire volume to Westminster Abbey alone. Roman remains in London took another volume, a third was devoted to the city proper, a fourth and fifth to past and present London. Essex, Huntingdonshire, Herefordshire and Herefordshire are considered in other volumes. Some of these are already out of print.

There has just been published the report upon east Herefordshire. One of the most amusing of the English shires, its relics of the past centuries now under notice range between a beacon camp on "Mabyn's lonely height"—constructed when a Roman fixation was an event of the far future—and the market house at Ross, one of the most interesting specimens of a public building of three centuries back. Even more gracious is the half-timbered market hall of Ledbury.

The churches of east Herefordshire, of course, have yielded an abundance of material. Consider their smaller possessions, and one is tempted to speculate—admittedly an ungracious speculation—on what they would "retch" if they were not so necessary to Christianity as what infants were being dipped (discreetly and warily, let us hope, under Bismarck's veto) in Canterbury Cathedral communion cups and daggers in use when 39 articles were drafted; pulpits occupied by the monks who had talked with Archbishop Laud; bells which ring the alarm of the Spanish Armada; richly carved stairways trodden by children of men who fought at Agincourt; oakens doors of manor houses which opened to gay cavaliers and to Cromwell's Ironsides! That England still holds for herself a vast treasure of the past is amply demonstrated when even this one volume is opened.

The chairman of the royal commission is the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres.

Complete Soil Survey

Classifying and Mapping Soils in Saskatchewan

After 11 years of work, involving over 120,000 miles of travel, Saskatchewan's soil survey is completed, according to announcement by the officials of the soils department of the University of Saskatchewan, in charge of the work.

In 1920 members of a better farming conference at Swift Current urged a survey of the whole of the province to classify and map the soils so as to encourage and assist the development of all types by means of farming to which they were best adapted.

A soil map of the western half of the province has been completed showing the many soil types, and field work of the present season brings to near completion the reconnaissance soil survey of the more settled part of Saskatchewan.

Game Conservation

Alberta Fish and Game Association Asks For Grant

A $5,000 grant to be used chiefly in conservation of wild life was sought from the Alberta Government by the Alberta Fish and Game Association in annual convention at Lethbridge. The association suggested the grant be made to the association from revenue derived through sale of hunters' and fishermen's licenses.

A resolution adopted by the delegates asked the Alberta and Dominion governments through their parks departments to undertake destruction of coyotes, wolves and other animals which are killing deer in large numbers within the park boundaries. Bird sanctuaries at Many Island Lake, Chin Lake, Shanty Lake and Kirkpatrick Lake were proposed.

Only one suggestion was made in connection with hunting of game birds. This was a recommendation on an open season of one week be provided on ruffed grouse, north of the North Saskatchewan River, with a limit of five birds a day and 15 for the season.

Norman Fraser, Edmonton, was elected president for the next two years and the next annual convention will be held in August, 1931, at Edmonton.

Trade With China

Canadian Representatives Have Taken Up Duties In Orient

Special representatives of the Department of Trade and Commerce have taken up location in China. Premier R. B. Bennett made this statement in the House of Commons. The Prime Minister had been asked if he would consider the advisability of appointing a special representative to China so as to facilitate trade relations.

Thomas Field, Liberal member for Westminister, put the question. He said that "in view of the fact that Chinese conditions have refused to meet Hon. Herbert Morrison, Canadian Minister to Japan, the appointment of a representative was increasingly important."

Mr. Bennett replied that provision had been made within the past 12 months for special representatives of the Department of Trade and Commerce to take up location in China. They had undertaken their duties there.

Boosting World's Grain Show

Preparing For Biggest Grain Show In History of the Continent

The buildings have been erected on the Regina exhibition grounds, and preparations are now being made for the biggest grain show in the history of the continent. The whole world is interested in the grain country on the face of the globe will have exhibited in Regina. No better place for the show could be chosen than the Queen City of the West, situated in Southern Saskatchewan in the centre of what in normal times is the greatest wheat and grain country in the world. It is also almost the geographical centre of the Prairie Provinces, or that section of them which is devoted to grain growing. Since the completion of the C.P.R. hotel and other hostilities, there is sufficient accommodation for the thousands who are expected to attend the show. Also, there is no more hospitable city in a country noted for its hospitality than the Capital of Saskatchewan—London, Ont., Press.

Government May Remove Some Dumping Duties

Certain Imports From Great Britain Are Under Consideration

The Canadian Government is giving "serious consideration" to removal of exchange dumping duties from certain imports from Great Britain. This was announced in the House of Commons by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Canada promised "sympathetic consideration" under the Anglo-Canadian treaty to removal of currency dumping duties from British imports.

"The Douglas family is a vera, vera, vera Scotch family. The Douglas was back into antiquity. We dinna ken how far back it rim, but it's a lang, lang way back, and the history of the Douglas family is recorded in five volumes. In about the middle of the third volume, in a marginal note, we read, 'About this time the world was created.'"

Clouds Are Depressing

Most People Feel Dependent When Sun Does Not Shine

Everyone had the blues this morning. The sky clouded it, for when we first awoke that ceiling was overcast with a dim grayish mist that filtered in with sunlight weakly and slowly. The newday on the corner refused me its customary greeting as I came to the office. The elevator boy in our building lacked his usual smile. The salesman on their daily rounds were dreary in their speech and I myself was not too bright and cheerful.

And then, about noon, there came a rift in the mullen clouds overhead, and suddenly the sun came through the gloom and flooded the streets below. And with its coming, our little world sprang into sudden activity. The figures in the street seemed to move more energetically; the sounds of city traffic began to make their hoarse, and here and there I caught the sound of laughter. When I went to lunch the elevator "boy" grinned at me. The porter on the corner called a delayed greeting as I passed. And the world came back to life again.

I thought later—how little it takes to sink us mortals into the depths of depression. The sun refuses to come out in the morning; a few miles above, a statistics frightens the brokers—and what! we are lost in despair!

But, sooner or later, the sun is sure to break through the clouds of doubt and worry. And we are back to work to wonder, then, how it was that we allowed ourselves to become so disconsolate and morose.

Cheer up! In a very short while it will seem very funny that for a short time the sun forgot to smile.—Nelson K. Bond.

Second Hand Airplanes

Brick Demand Reported In England For Them

Though it is certainly a sign that aviation is becoming part of the humdrum life of the country, flying automobiles may not be quite dated to think that second-hand airplanes are now for the first time coming on the market. The majority of these machines are light, two-seater type and probably cost when new anything up to $1000 each. They are now offered at second-hand, but apparently in perfectly good trim, for anything between $300 and $400. Most of these machines are being put on the second-hand market by owners who have either found that the running and maintenance costs were greater than they anticipated, or whose first enthusiasm for aviation as a private hobby has waned somewhat after a brief trial. A few cases there may be of course, where a bigger machine is desired. I hear there is a brick demand for these second-hand machines.—London Cor. Ottawa Journal.

Progress In Mixed Farming

Dairy Products and Cattle Help To Balance Budget

The great lesson of the crisis is the utter condemnation of one-crop cultivation. If the objection is made that beasts, poultry and dairy products are not fetching a better price than wheat, they do at least contribute in great measure to balance the farm budget by reducing the expense account. Our farming population must learn to be self-sufficing. The immense progress achieved in this direction will be very profitable and may avert other crises of the kind through which we are now passing.—La Liberte, Winnipeg.

An extensive programme of technical papers on scientific subjects pertaining to production of grain of all kinds is being planned.

Mental Patients

Apparent Decrease Due To Greater Per Centage Of Discharges

Increase in patients in Canadian mental institutions during 1931 was less than the increase in the previous year, according to figures issued by the Canadian national committee for mental hygiene. Total number of patients in the hospitals and Canadian institutions on December 31, 1931, was 55,000, of whom 30,007 were classified as sane and 5,000 as mentally deficient. Total number on the books on January 1, 1931, was 50,445, of whom 24,948 were insane and 5,000 mentally deficient. The increase during the year was 1,611 which compares with an increase of 1,704 during 1930.

"This apparent decrease in the number of victims of mental disorders, was not due, however, to fewer cases arriving at the hospitals, but rather to a greater percentage of discharges," the committee reports. "As a matter of fact, there were more admissions in 1931 than in 1930. There were 10,089 persons admitted to mental institutions in 1931, while in 1930 the number was 9,800. During the previous year, 6,483 in 1931, as against 5,222 in 1930. For every 100 patients admitted in 1931, 100 were discharged, and for every 100 patients discharged, 28.5 were discharged as recovered."

"The chronic condition of overcrowding, which is a constant feature of mental institutions, is of course, a matter of great concern. In 1931, 1,611 additional persons have been forced into them, while the total amount of new beds provided is probably less than 200. The further consequences are bound to follow unless governments take immediate steps to supply additional space equal at least to the annual increase in institution population."

Expedition To Jericho

Scientists To Explore Ruins Of Royal Palace

Professor John Garstang and Sir Charles Marston are to continue their excavation of Jericho this winter to ascertain further facts about stories related in the Bible.

Professor Garstang will depart for Palestine this month. Sir Charles may accompany him, or go later. They have laid four expeditions to Jericho in the last four years.

"The royal palace is the most important building on the whole site," says Sir Charles. This was their objective this time.

"Its massive walls rise 60 feet above the surrounding ruins. We have already explored some of its store-rooms and have found bags of grain well preserved."

"It is significant that the whole palace was destroyed by fire when it was still in occupation. The time was that of Joshua and our discoveries agree with the Bible story. The fortifications are supposed to go back to prehistoric times, and it is of great interest to find some concrete tablets which may be stored away in the cellar."

"The interesting excavations of Jericho have shown that when the city was captured and destroyed it was not destroyed. And this is exactly as described in the Book of Joshua."

Few people can realize the difficulty of the spade work at Jericho. The heat is terrific and reminds one of a mild Turkish bath.

"Owing to the splendid road built by the British in the World War, Jericho can now be reached by car in an hour from Jerusalem. The journey starts at 2,000 feet above sea level and finishes at 1,800 feet below sea level."

The Kind She Knew

The mistress was giving the new maid from the country a list of household requirements.

"There you are, Alice," she said, and then suddenly remembered an article she had almost forgotten.

"—don't forget we shall want a new griller for the kitchen too."

Also stated vaguely.

"Don't you know what a griller is?" asked the other, sharply.

"I should say I do," replied the maid in large letters. "It's a monkey, the size of a man."

England has twice as many women as men over 50 years old.

Do You Know?

When you bought seals last year this was the big work you helped with. When you buy NOW you help to do even more in 1937.

Should you buy seals? This year many should not or cannot. Do not be pressed to buy unless you should. We would like to think that some had bought, who should not. It is quite easy to return the seals to the sanatorium at Ninette, Manitoba. If you have bought in other years and cannot this year please take a few seals without cost before returning.

But do your bit by buying if you can and what you can. The more the year the more the seal.

Different Dog Taxes

In England they pay 1s. 6d. for a license for any sort of dog, but in Germany dogs are taxed according to their weight. A dachshund costs £3 a year. In France dogs are taxed according to their value. You can keep a mongrel for as little as a shilling, but a thoroughbred may cost thirty shillings.

Manitoba Honey

Almost Entire 1937 Crop Of Honey Has Been Sold

Practically the entire 1937 honey crop of Manitoba has now been sold, and information is being compiled as to the amount disposed of, according to L. T. Floyd, provincial apiculturist.

History in the rapid development of bee-keeping in this province was made by the shipment of the first carload of honey to Montreal. This was done by the honey-growers around Oshawa, who have been particularly active under the leadership of Brother Pineault, of Mason St. Joseph. They also have filled a carload order for British Columbia.

Brother Pineault teaches bee-keeping at his institution, and his students have become bee-keepers in all parts of the province. Mr. Floyd commended him for the big strides made in that part of the province. The most modern equipment for bee-keeping and extracting honey has been installed at Mason St. Joseph.

Good reports as to the honey crop have been received from the Hutterite colonies, where large acreage sown in sweet clover has been the prolific source of this sort of honey that is giving Manitoba a Dominion-wide reputation. The James Valley colony at Starbuck, for example, produced 30,000 pounds of honey.

Reports of unusually good crops also have been received from the Gladstone, Pimma districts, from Gilbert Plains and Dauphin in the north and in the Carman area. In southwestern Manitoba the honey crop failed on account of drought and grasshopper damage. In the Red River valley area eastward from the town of Dauphin, which is the largest honey producing area in the province, while the crop was not so good in quality or yield by hives as it was a year ago, there was increased production because of enlarged apiaries.

Beeskeepers around Oshawa, Dauphin, Cloverleaf, Anoka and Hazelridge, who have formed the Springfield Association, purchased around 1,000 packages of bees in the spring and a carload of time to take care of the crop, according to Mr. Floyd.

Three manufacturers sold 22 carloads of time to the apiculturists of the province to take care of the 1937 crop, and there is a rumor that next year's supply of time will be made in Winnipeg.—Free Press.

Christmas Seal Campaign

Nineteen Sanatoriums in Manitoba Doing Splendid Work

The Christmas seals which have they to say for themselves? What do they do to help in these bad days? They pay for the field work of the Travelling Tuberculosis Clinics. These clinics scout through Manitoba for hidden tuberculosis and help to clear it up. Already in 1932, 41 clinics have been held—more than twice as many as last year, 16 places visited for the first time, and 4,460 examined, a 50 per cent increase over 1931.

These travelling clinics go into all parts of the province, into poor communities, and poor, and very poor. They follow clues of disease, examine those who have been in contact with open tuberculosis, or are suspected, and keep examining them. No charge is made for any such examination. There is now a van to carry all equipment and staff, and a portable generator, so that a current for X-ray films can be provided anywhere.

More than fifteen thousand examinations have been made by these Manitoba Travelling Clinics since they began, supported by seal sales. Besides known tuberculosis people who have been seen, the new discoveries of tuberculosis totalled more than 200 in 1931, and altogether, more than one thousand.

When you bought seals last year this was the big work you helped with. When you buy NOW you help to do even more in 1937.

Should you buy seals? This year many should not or cannot. Do not be pressed to buy unless you should. We would like to think that some had bought, who should not. It is quite easy to return the seals to the sanatorium at Ninette, Manitoba. If you have bought in other years and cannot this year please take a few seals without cost before returning.

But do your bit by buying if you can and what you can. The more the year the more the seal.

Steamers Missed Rock Through Good Luck

Found Near Surface In Channel Of Vancouver Coast

Lady Louie has been standing on the bridge of every steamer that has navigated Betty's Cove, Claycoquet Sound, West Coast of Vancouver Island, because in the dead centre of the channel there is a pinnacle of rock that had less than fifteen feet of water over it at low water.

This pinnacle was located by the Dominion hydrographic steamer "Tallboat" in the course of her charting work and a lot of mariners are shaking hands with themselves at getting clear of that dangerous spot without trouble.

How ships missed piling up on this rock is explained by the hydrographers that none believed that it was in the neighborhood at low water. "Just a matter of luck," said one of the hydrographers.

A Pocket Sheep-Shearer

Small Machine Can Run From Light Battery Of Car

A small machine for shearing sheep weighing only five pounds, has been invented for use with the lighting battery of a motor car.

Many modern shepherds in Britain get by with a scythe, and with such a shearer—attached to a flexible wire to the dashboard—they can remove 12 pounds of fleeces in five minutes.

Plenty In A Name

What's in a name? "Plenty" said Detective Thomas Hemmigan, and a New York Central railroad engineer, who was forced to stop his train, climb from the cab and help shove an automobile from the railroad tracks where it apparently was abandoned. The automobile was marked on the tracks by a man named Lavitt.

A forestry course for army recruits has been instituted in Norway.

"I use Apofol Wonder Paper now. You buy it in a neat package that tucks away handily in a table drawer. Twenty-five large sheets for a quarter. When you use it, you simply crumple a sheet into a soft ball and go over wherever needs attention."

"The never use anything like Wonder Paper. It really dusts, cleans and polishes at the same time. It takes up dirt like magic, and so easily. And you can use both sides."

"What I used to bother about dusting was the bother of keeping the dusters clean. I always used odds and ends of old shirts and the like—and it seemed to me I was eternally washing them. It worried me just to throw them into a bag or cupboard. They seemed so filthy."

"The beauty of Wonder Paper is that you throw it away when you're through with it. It gives you time for things very much more attractive than dusting."

Editor Gets Three Months For Libel

This Shows How Careful Editors Must Be

Charged with defamatory libel about T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company and found guilty, J. J. Harpell Editor of the "Journal of Commerce" was sentenced to three months imprisonment. While this will be a warning to other editors it is also hoped it will give the general public a better idea of how careful an editor must be about what he puts in print.

There are those in every community who appear to think the local editor should use his columns to air their petty spites, grievances and family or neighborhood squabbles. Why don't you get after this one or that one; this organization or that organization? we are sometimes asked. He or they should have done this or should not have done that, we are told, Finn. But if the average editor were to pay attention to, and fall for that line of dope the government would have to build additional jails especially for editors.

Those who expect that sort of thing from the editor are the usual kind of the instigators of their neighbors at a pleasant luncheon and social evening in their home last Monday evening. Cards and hiding in the cellar when the various games were played.
